

STINGRAY TECHNOLOGY READINESS LEVEL

The Stingray Technology Readiness level is at Stage 9:

- All components of the Stingray are inclusive of standard existing products that have been proven through successful deployment in fully operational settings globally by millions of customers.
- Each component supplier is a leader in their field with decades of experience at the highest levels of business.
- Each component and application of the technologies are in their final form and are in service globally under real-life conditions.
- Each component has been chosen to meet all government code and safety standards.

